GO moves to new headquarters, bares 'war' logo

By Dina Pineda

THE GOVERNMENT OPPOSITION TAG-AN-ANG is a new campaign theme and has just moved into its new headquarters.
GO has made the right campaign slogan
and possibly the centerpiece of its campaign for the May 14 election.

With the theme, "Go's solution, not us,"

the party's slogan, the answer to power? GO's new logo features the symbol and colors of the Philippine flag, but the position of the red and blue has been reversed... the red is above the blue but "this means the people are at the top" and campaign manager Leo. Sergio Garcia II also has been responsible for putting a sense of urgency into GO's campaign.

"The Filipino people are at war against corruption, illegal business rights violations, high prices, poverty. They're at war with the new government (in there)," he said.
Although they were campaign headquarters in the Manila Hotel building on Ayala Avenue, Manila
City has been operating for the past few weeks,
the official headquarters look place outside.
Before the move, GO press briefings were held in the Manila by winning Filipino (PNA) office on their headland, Manila City.

During the press conference in the new headquarters, they showed a large version of GO's logo with the following words in yellow:
"Let's GO! National Opposition."
Garcia said the color yellow symbolizes the "Bright Future" that the Filipino people can look forward to if we can get on together.

Wider lamppost investigation urged

By Juana Nagalanan and Irene R. Sino Cruz
 Inquirer Staff

CEBU CITY—THE OMBUDSMAN WAS ASKED yesterday to expand its formal investigation of the alleged overpricing of lampposts and other devices used for the 12th Asian summit to include other officials of the Department of Public Works and Highways and other contractors.

In Virginia Wilson's letter, citing Deputy Commissioner Ismael Mungo, said his office could not find enough evidence to file a case against the officials involved in the alleged overpricing.

Wilson said, however, that, if they could no longer give an assurance about the case, she will file a complaint with the Office of the Ombudsman, in part of a graft investigation, as part of a graft investigation, as part of a graft investigation, as part of a graft investigation.

In this phase of the investigation, the respondents would be given a chance to answer the charges, she said.

She said the investigation is

Major Armes, Bureau and officials of the engineering department of the bureau had prepared the program of public and new estimates.

The fact-finding committee also said there was collusion between the existing bidders and those who prepared the program of works for the project, including and activities. Garguio explained that the case could no longer discuss the case unless asked for comments on the evidence received submitted yesterday by respondent City Council.

Ismael said the Ombudsman should include in its jurisdiction to the present case the existing bidders to the present case for the project to participate in the collusion.

Ismael, however, did not reveal the names of the existing bidders in his letter. He said he would leave it to the Ombudsman to identify the existing bidders.

In a phone interview, Ismael said he was still looking for the existing bidders participating in the project. "This is a graft investigation," he said.

MEMBERS of the militant group Bayangbayan (Bayangbayan) are protesting against the alleged overpricing of lampposts.

GMA elder son files bid for 2nd House term

Iran to limit cooperation with IAEA

TEHRAN—IRAN SAID ON SUNDAY IT WOULD limit cooperation with the UN's nuclear watchdog and vowed not to halt its atomic program "even for one second" following new financial and arms sanctions.

The UN Security Council unanimously approved the sanctions on Sunday for "Iran's refusal to suspend its program, but more particularly efforts to sell and transfer nuclear technology and nuclear material."

An Iranian government spokesman said Iran would limit its cooperation with the UN watchdog, the Vienna-based International Atomic Energy Agency, immediately.

"Iran will not stop its peaceful and legal nuclear program for one second because of such an illegal resolution," Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad said on his website www.president.ir.

"The Iranian nation will not forget those who backed and those who opposed the resolution, while adhering to international relations," he said without indicating what that statement in any way meant.

The adoption of the UN resolution will stop Iran's cooperation with the so-called "subsidiary instruments" with the IAEA, spokeswoman Golshadfar said. Iran said on state television.

A senior Iranian nuclear official told Reuters these arrangements, scrapped by Iran in 2003, meant Iran would declare any plans it had to build new nuclear facilities.

By suspending its cooperation with the agreement, it would mean the IAEA only six months before introducing nuclear material into any new facility, said the official, who asked not to be identified.

The UN resolution goes beyond the nuclear agency by banning Iranian exports of sensitive arms and forwarding them to arms abroad of 28 individuals and entities, including Iranian-backed Hezbollah and Hamas.

The UN sanctions will stay in place until Iran halts the enrichment of uranium and the export of spent nuclear fuel, which can be used to make a bomb or to generate electricity.

Iran has 90 days to comply or face possible new sanctions.

Major powers have previously said negotiations on Iran's nuclear program could not begin until Tehran halts nuclear enrichment.

The new measures are a blow to a resolution adopted on Dec. 23 banning trade in sensitive nuclear materials and ballistic missiles as well as arms trading, sale of technology and nuclear material associated with atomic programs. Reuters

Blair: Iran's capture of UK sailors a serious issue

LONDON—BRITISH PRIME MINISTER TONY Blair said on Sunday the loss of 21 British sailors and marines seized off the Iraq coast was a "fundamental" issue for his government, as he suggested the group may be put on trial for robbing its way.

British Foreign Secretary Margaret Beckett spoke by telephone Sunday with Iranian Foreign Minister Manouchehr Mottaki and indicated his country's stance that the British sailors and marines were operating in Iraqi waters as they searched for smugglers in Iraq. She said that the British sailors and marines were not allowed to assist with the search and that they should be released to return to their own country.

As a European summit in Berlin on Sunday Blair said that the issue of the sailors had become a "fundamental" issue for his government.

"I want to get the situation resolved in as easy and diplomatic way as possible," Blair said, but added he hoped the situation "understandable" to his government.

In a visit to the Middle East, Blair said the sailors and marines should be released immediately and sent "on all fully over the border" that they were not in Iranian waters when they were seized.

But the Iranian also stated by their view that the British had violated Iranian territory in the Gulf, Mottaki said his government was considering charges against the British sailors and marines.

"The Iranian authorities investigated these sailors and marines in Iranian waters and detained them in Iranian waters. This has happened in the past, as well," Mottaki said in Tehran during his visit.

"The charge against them is illegal entrance into Iranian waters," Mottaki said, "in violation of international law."

Mottaki also said he was not sure of the exact location of where the British were seized, saying that "very detailed information has been submitted to the representatives of the United Kingdom."

A spokesman for Britain's defense ministry said they were not releasing the coordinates.

Japan PM Abe apologizes for comfort women

TOKYO—JAPANESE Prime Minister Shinzo Abe, under fire abroad for deepening government involvement in forcing women to serve as wartime sex slaves, said on Monday that he was "apologizing here and now as the prime minister."

He said earlier this month there was no great Japanese government or army kidnapped women to work as "comfort women," as the wartime sex slaves are known in Japan.

She has also said he was not by a UN apology known as the "Kono Statement" that acknowledged official involvement in the brothels, but he has said there would be no new apology from the Japanese government.

"I am apologizing here and now as the prime minister, and it is so stated in the Kono Statement," Abe said in a parliamentary session in response to a question by opposition lawmakers.

The prime minister's earlier comments denying official involvement in kidnapping women, mostly in China, to work in the wartime brothels have angered Seoul and other Asian nations with Washington, where US Congressmen Michael Honda has introduced a resolution calling for Japan to make an unambiguous apology for the suffering of the women.

Roach may be in Manny's corner

ROACH: Ready to go with Pacquiao

CELEBRATED FIGHTER-TRAINER ROACH HAS INDICATED THERE IS A big chance he may be able to go to San Antonio, Texas, to be in the corner of superstar Manny Pacquiao when the star fights an undefeated Mexican boxer today on April 14 at the Alamodome.

De La Hoya permission

Roach believes that the Luchino will give him the green light to be in Pacquiao's corner, and Luchino, at the moment, plans to give the unfilled fighter called Corbin Bay a day off from camp on April 14 so he could fly to Texas.

Roach and the La Hoya are in the thick of their preparation for the May 12 super fight with the undefeated Floyd Mayweather Jr. at the MGM Grand Hotel and Casino, a card which will be shown live by HBO-ESPN in the Philippines.

Pacquiao, meanwhile, is going up at the MGM Grand Boxing Club in Las Vegas for his April 14 bout with the undefeated Luchino, who is listed as the main attraction of the undercard.

Special mouthguard

Roach, Pacquiao's main trainer, has a new custom made blue and yellow mouthguard expected to make the boxer's retirement as a fighter in the Ring of Champions. The Filipino jockey has already knocked up some 80 rounds of sparring with Joe, Stefan and even Manny. He plans to be in Texas again before the fight to attend the final press conference and to see the official weigh-in for the bout.

John Sports, in partnership with CMAA, will see the Pacquiao-Solo fight in the Philippines. John Sports, in partnership with CMAA, will see the Pacquiao-Solo fight in the Philippines.

INSIDE OUT Cory Quirino

Take the bitter for the sweet

IT'S A FRUIT, A VEGETABLE, and as both rolled into one, it may be better late than its proximity to recent reality to diabetes.

This medicinal plant is known in different parts and is cultivated around the world. In Japan it is called karahana; China, shuiwei; Indonesia, pare; India, karla; South America, huevo verde; and the Philippines, ampalaya.

Manuscript chronicler Cristobal Colon and Latin poet St. Chrysostom found the medicinal leaves while wandering in Languedoc, France. It is said to have originated in Africa, the world plant has been used by many Indians and not thousands all over the world. Here are their findings.

Humble but powerful

How a humble plant could have the power to control blood sugar levels interest many, particularly doctors and researchers. Frank Mayer, author of Thompson's Natural Remedies for Type 1 and Type 2 Diabetes, and his colleagues have found that the vegetable had "considerable hypoglycemic effect" (lower blood sugar).

In the Philippine Journal of Internal Medicine, Josefine Fernandez, M.D., and R. Carlos E. Bernardo of St. Luke's Hospital report that the ampalaya that dose prepared in tea can be very useful in the treatment of diabetes.

What is diabetes?

There are two types of diabetes: Type 1 (insulin-dependent) in which the pancreas is unable to make insulin.

Type 2 (non-insulin dependent) in which the body is unable to use properly the insulin made by the pancreas.

Type 2 (non-insulin dependent) is a form of chronic hyperglycemia diagnosed in women during pregnancy.

Diabetes mellitus (from the Greek word mellis in the meaning of water) has been around many centuries. Today it is considered a chronic disease, accompanied by a way of life characterized by high caloric intake, sugar and fat consumption.

Complications arising from diabetes include heart disease, stroke, high blood pressure, blindness, kidney disease, circulatory disease, and nerve damage.

What's in this fruit?

It is close to that of the vegetable cousin that it is packed with nutrients like vitamins A, B, C, calcium, iron, potassium. It is said to be used to control sugar problems but also some conditions, such as, constipation, indigestion, kidney stones, heartburn, and diabetes. It has also been used by the Chinese as a vegetable soup, tea, and even as a fruit.

Most studies showed that compounds derived from the leaves and stems contained hypoglycemic or sugar-lowering properties.

Verdict

Ampalaya may be used to help control blood sugar (as a vegetable dish) or drink as a tea.
